Ethan,

Happy Thanksgiving Day! Hope everything is ok.

Last night we had a pitch in Thanksgiving dinner at the campground clubhouse. We met a lot of people + herd a lot of stories about camping on the Road. We met one man who was a full time RVER for 15 years back in the late 80s before his wife got sick + passed away. He is still working at a RV sales + service bosiness, he is 53 years old. We heard a lot of interesting stories. Him + his wife covered all of the united States. He told us his RV was totally made of wood including the entire frame. It was so heavy he pulled it with a semi truck.

Well the dinner was great, lots of turkey, potatoes, salads + plenty of Deserts.

There was one young boy there who just got out of basic training a while back + he didn't think basic was too bad, I can't emagine that.

How is your running and push ups comming along? Just Remember no matter how strong you get, I can still whip your ass. HA HA

Well I hope things are getting easier for you, sure can't wait to see you soon.

Remember we love you very much & no matter how big or old you get, you will always be our little boy.

Be good & take care, will write again tomorrow.

We love you!
